

PRESS RELEASE

METLEN begins trading on the London Stock Exchange

Athens, Greece / London, United Kingdom – August 4, 2025 – METLEN Energy & Metals Plc (METLEN) announces the commencement of trading of its shares on the London Stock Exchange (LSE) under the ticker symbol MTLN.

The listing marks a significant milestone in METLEN's strategic growth plan, following the successful completion of a voluntary share exchange offer (SEO) that secured an acceptance level of over 90%.

To mark the occasion, METLEN's Chairman & CEO, Evangelos Mytilineos, and members of the senior leadership team participated in the official Market Open Ceremony at the London Stock Exchange, celebrating METLEN's transformation into a dual-listed company on one of Europe's most prominent stock exchanges.

"Today marks a major step in METLEN's journey as a global energy & industrial force," said Evangelos Mytilineos. "Our listing on the London Stock Exchange reflects the scale and ambition of our energy & metals businesses and enhances our ability to reach international investors as we continue to grow across markets and continents."

As previously announced, the LSE will be METLEN's primary listing venue, with a secondary listing on the Athens Exchange, trading on which it also commenced today.

METLEN becomes the first company to list on the LSE with its primary listing denominated in euros.
